4) Nightline Aachen – Your anonymous phone support if you're in need to talk to someone confidentially

Nightline Aachen is an anonymous phone support service run by students for students. Everyone is allowed to call and talk confidentially about worries, problems or anxieties. Typical topics are academic issues, exam anxiety, problems in your relationship, with your parents or flatmates and loneliness. Especially at night, when friends and family are not available, Nightline Aachen offers a chance to talk.

They are available every Monday and Thursday from 9PM to Midnight under the German landline 0241-56520343 .

Nightline Aachen is a group of student volunteers. They had training in phone conversations but are no experts or psychologists. They rather offer a talk with someone who can relate to your situation. You can call about anything on your mind, be it positive or negative. Speaking English is also welcome.

5) International Student Support Group Aachen for Depression and Anxiety

Do you suffer from depression or anxiety? You are not alone!

The “International Student Support Group Aachen” consists of young international people involved in providing a group for mental health problems. The objective of the group is to provide a non-judgmental environment, where members can treat each other with respect and kindness. It is particularly helpful to meet people who have faced similar experiences. The essential principle of the group is the confidentiality of what is said or expressed and must be respected by all participants. A support group gives you an opportunity to talk openly about your feelings. By joining the team, you will make the experience that you are not alone!

If you are interested to participate, please contact us:
